Albert S. P. Wong Hawaii CCIM Chapter 101 Scholarship

Albert S. P. Wong, CCIM, CIPS Palace Realty Honolulu: “Al” Wong has specialized in real estate counseling for 42 years with clients in China , Taiwan , the U.S. mainland, and Hawaii . He earned the CCIM designation in 1973 and is a lifetime institute member. His past institute involvement includes chairing designation promotion, marketing, international coordinating, and bylaws committees and serving as the Hawaii chapter president. He was also a director of the Institute's Education Foundation. In 2004, Wong met with the members of the Beijing and Shanghai chapters to network and create new investment opportunities. He received a Lifetime Achievement Award from CCIM in 2000.. Al retired in 2014.

The CCIM designation is the PhD of commercial real estate and is the gateway course of the CCIM Designation Program. “CI 101: Financial Analysis for Commercial Investment Real Estate” is the first course in a series of courses to obtain the prestigious CCIM designation. This course will give students a thorough understanding of financial analysis tools, concepts and calculations to make sound decision involving commercial real estate. It covers cash flow models, time value of money concepts, finance programs, loan terms and variables, appraisal methods, measurement of investment value and performance, and taxation issues.

The Hawaii CCIM Chapter will award two (2) $500 scholarships to deserving individuals to be used towards the CI101 class held in Hawaii. The scholarship is on a reimbursement basis. You must complete the class to receive the reimbursement.

Interested applicants must complete a scholarship application. Deadline for entries is January 31st of each year
